

libraries

Local libraries are a wonderful way to share the gift of reading with your little one. Where else can you check out and read 20+ books before you make them part of your little ones library. As an adult, I enjoy the fact that I don't have to buy every hardback book from Baldacci. Libraries can offer a tremendous savings to families. In addition to the standard fair, all of the local libraries that I have researched offer storytimes, movies and more. Check the website for locations, hours of operations, monthly events and storytimes. Noteworthy, many of the local storytimes offer a "pajama party". Junior can come in his PJs to hear an evening storytime and head home to bed. All this and the cost is FREE!
